Doom Of The Blasted Earth - An Adventure on the Blasted Earth

The androids and A.I. of the moon have a list of vital resources they need gathered from the Earth. Their data is more than 300 years out of date, but they have GPS listings on the Earth of where these materials used to be.

The player group gets a choice of locations to search. Characters may have to visit more than one location to collect the needed amount. Each location is in different types of terrain. The Androids don't know exactly where the materials are but the locations are within ten miles of where it was 311 years ago.

The pace of life on Earth is much faster than that of the moon. On the moon, the encounters for hundreds of years are set so that the tourists could adapt and survive. On the Earth, life and death happen in the blink of an eye.

Forests and Jungles: Mutated creatures move in the forests of the world. Alien DNA was seeded onto the Earth. Heavier radiation from the sun has struck the Earth for over 300 years. The forces of natural selection have gone into over drive to make deadly and superior predators.

Desert Lands: There are many different types of deserts and step lands on the Blasted Earth these environments have spawned mutated robots and malfunctioning Androids.

Volcanic Ash: Here alien life is everywhere. Creatures here depend on the heat of the lava and the minerals in the springs, ash fall, and lava flows to survive. Other creatures come into the ash lands looking for prey.
